APPEARANCES OF COUNSEL

FOR THE PLAINTIFF: SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

3 THE COURT: Let's go ahead and call the case.
4 We'll call Case Number 2:23-CV-482, it's Securities and 5 Exchange Commission vs. Digital Licensing and others. This is 6 a sealed hearing in a sealed case with the Securities and 7 Exchange Commission. This is a hearing set on an application
8 for a temporary restraining order filed by the Commission
9 Docket Number 3. I think we also noticed probably Docket
10 Number 4, which is the ex-parte application of an appointment 11 for a receiver in the case. That's Docket Number 4. Both of 12 these motions filed the same day the Commission initiated this 13 action, July 26th, with the filing of its complaint, which is 14 Docket Number 1.

15 Mr. Welsh, let me invite you to make your 16 appearance for the Commission and along with anyone else you 17 would like to announce today.

18 MR. WELSH: Thank you, Your Honor. And thank you 19 for making the time for us in such short notice. Michael 20 Welsh on behalf of the Securities and Exchange Commission.
21 With me is my co-counsel Casey Fronk. Also in the room is 22 members of the investigative staff. They're off camera as we 23 are using our laptop. They are here if you have questions 24 about the investigation that I was unable to answer.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you. And let

1 me just say at the outset that I apologize I don't -- I'm sure
2 my staff knows, I was at a speaking engagement out of state
3 yesterday, but I know that this case was initially errantly 4 assigned to one of my colleagues. We have a protocol for 5 assigning, randomly assigning temporary restraining orders or 6 motions for temporary restraining order that get filed, and 7 for some reason our clerk's office stepped out of that 8 protocol accidentally, and the case was assigned for a moment 9 I think to Judge Nielson. I think that's reflected on the 10 record. I just wanted to make a record about why you're 11 seeing me and not Judge Nielson. I was the judge in the queue
12 that was next to receive a TRO. So I know there's been a 13 little bit of delay getting here.

14 Let me just say, in preparation for our hearing we 15 studied your complaint, your application for the TRO, your 16 motion seeking appointment of a receiver. We've reviewed a 17 lot of the material that you've submitted. And I appreciate 18 you having the investigative staff ready. I actually think 19 I'm high-centered on a legal question. So in the interest of 20 transparency, and I do this almost every time I have a 21 hearing, let me just paint the target for you so you know 22 where you're aiming.

23 The Commission relies in this case, and I think 24 I've seen this before in other emergency TRO type situations
25 with the Commission on the Unifund decision from the Second

1 Circuit for the proposition that a lower burden exists when 2 the Commission is seeking relief under Rule 65. I'll note as 3 I have I think previously, it's a 1990 decision from the 4 Second Circuit. It predates Winter. More importantly for me
5 sitting in Utah in the 10th Circuit I'm bound by 10th Circuit 6 authority.

7 Following the Winter decision, there was a decision
8 in the 10th Circuit in 2016, nobody knows how to pronounce it.
9 I call it Diné Citizens. You may have found it in your 10 research for this case. Diné was the 10th Circuit's response
11 to the Supreme Court's Winter decision. And at least as I
12 read Winter I think the Supreme Court left to the circuits
13 some breadth, some width to decide what standards each circuit 14 was going to adopt for the requirements of Rule 65. You may 15 remember, and maybe I'm jumping ahead of you here, Winter was 16 the decision where the Supreme Court said, this business of 17 some circuits reducing the burden required for a TRO or in 18 some instances saying you don't even need to establish all 19 four elements is incorrect. And the Supreme Court reversed.

20 So I'll just tell you Diné doesn't involve an 21 application for a TRO by an administrative agency. But the 22 language of Diné is clear, and I'll just cite a passage from 23 Diné, which is binding of course on me. There the 24 10th Circuit said following Winter that: Any modified test 25 which relaxes one of the prongs for preliminary relief and

1       thus deviates from the standard test is impermissible, end 2       quote.

3               There may be a district judge somewhere in the 4       10th Circuit -- well, I know there are. In fact, there's one 5       on my court. You all got an injunction I think from one of my 6       colleagues applying the Second Circuit standard from Unifund.

7               I don't think I'm permitted to do that. So let me
8       just say I think you've made a robust showing, factual showing 9       tethered to the Securities and Exchange Act, both the 33 act 10      and the 34 act. I think you've most likely satisfied your 11      obligation to show a likelihood of success on the merits. But 12      in reviewing your materials, I don't think you've addressed 13      let alone made arguments drawn to some of the other Rule 65
14      factors. I want to be sure -- I want to allow you to be heard 15      on this point, but let me tell you before you start what I've 16      done and what I'm anticipating, and then you can convince me 17      that it's crazy and we should do something different.

18              I've prepared a short oral ruling that I think lays 19      out what I think the standard is and why I think that is the 20      standard that governs, what I think is missing in the 21      application. And then with the intent that the oral ruling at 22      least denies the motion without prejudice to re-file it, and 23      what I was going to propose is that we set a time for a 24      hearing Monday morning to take up the matter again if you wish 25      to address my ruling in any way that you think might be

1 helpful or necessary.

2 But that's just my orientation coming to the bench.
3 Mr. Welsh, why is that all wrong? Or how do you think we 4 should proceed?

5 MR. WELSH: Your Honor, I appreciate you putting 6 the bulls eye in front of us. I would say if you could point 7 me to particularly which of the elements of facts that you
8 consider that you believe that we did not adequately address 9 in the hearing, we did rely on the Second Circuit opinion, but 10 I would submit that the factors are still there to the extent
11 that there are additional considerations that Your Honor 12 thought were lacking. And I'd be happy to address those.

13 THE COURT: I appreciate that. Thank you. I'll 14 say there's one other element that I think -- there's one 15 other part of 10th Circuit law that I think we hadn't 16 accounted for in this application, and that is in the 17 10th Circuit certain injunctions, requested injunctions are 18 disfavored, either mandatory injunctions which require 19 affirmative action on behalf of someone who's being enjoined
20 or certain other kinds of injunctions including injunctions
21 that change the status quo. And I think some of the relief 22 that the Commission is seeking here does both. There's 23 affirmative obligation in your request for the repatriation of 24 funds, and that's both an affirmative act that defendant would 25 have to, at least some of the defendants would have to

1 perform, and also arguably changes the status quo if the funds 2 are somewhere else at the time that you seek for relief or at 3 the time the dispute became live at least.

4 So give me just a moment. Let me turn back to the 5 merits argument. And I'll just say, I want to be completely
6 transparent. I think there's information in your application 7 from which the Court could fashion arguments about why each of 8 the four elements mandatory -- or excuse me -- required 9 elements of a Rule 65 TRO are satisfied. I just don't believe 10 that's the proper function for a court and especially in an 11 ex-parte context. So just one moment, I'll be more specific.

12 MR. WELSH: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 (Time lapse.)

14 THE COURT: So here one of the elements that I 15 think you stepped over I think in reliance on Unifund is the 16 obligation to show a risk of irreparable harm -- or 17 irreparable injury, and the other -- oh, let's see. Yeah, 18 that's right. I'm embarrassed now to tell you that I 19 didn't -- just noticing that your briefing relied on the two 20 elements that Unifund highlights, I sort of stopped after 21 that. But what I can tell you is that, you know, the four 22 elements are substantial likelihood of prevailing on the 23 merits, I think you've adequately maybe even robustly
24 addressed that. I don't know if you've shown irreparable 25 harm, though as I say I think could read that -- I could infer

1       that showing from the papers, I could craft an argument why 2       that's been made, why you've satisfied that prong.

3               I don't know if you engaged in an analysis about 4       how the threatened injury outweighs the harm that the 5       defendants may suffer. And then, of course, you're required 6       to show that the injunction that was at issue would not 7       adversely affect the public interest.

8               I don't think there was much discussion about the 9       last three elements, at least not framed in the context of 10      Rule 65. But did I miss them, Mr. Welsh?

11              MR. WELSH: No, Your Honor. I think you've 12      accurately described our pleadings. I would say that there 13      are, as you indicated there are facts in there in our 14      briefings that do address those issues. I'm happy to address 15      those now. From your proposed order, if you would prefer us 16      to brief them in full in an amended brief, we'd be happy to do 17      so.

18              But to the irreparable harm, I would submit, Your 19      Honor, that from briefings that we pointed out defendants are 20      moving assets overseas. They have said in videos that the 21      reason they are doing this is to avoid SEC jurisdiction. They 22      have dissipated funds both in closing known accounts and using 23      those funds to purchase exorbitant gifts for themselves and 24      posting videos as part of their promotion activity of those -- 25      for purchasing Lamborghini, new real estate, and recently on

1 more of an evidentiary side, our investigative staff has 2 noticed they have started to take down videos, started to 3 remove evidence that we would need to rely upon in discovery.

4 And so I would submit for the irreparable harm is 5 that -- taking a step back, Your Honor, if I may. At this 6 point as you've seen probably from our TRO briefings we've 7 been covert up to this point. We are not able to access 8 additional documents through subpoena without notifying them 9 for fear that that would alert them in proceeding this way.
10 Should we not receive the TRO, we're fearful for the same 11 reasons that us serving them with a complaint and moving for 12 preliminary injunction would have that same circumstance.

13 And one particular fact about this case that makes 14 it unique, which I'm sure Your Honor has seen in other cases 15 recently is becoming more and more prevalent, is a substantial 16 amount of the funds in this case were cryptocurrency
17 transactions. Now, why that matters is in this circumstance 18 with assets being moved not only will it be difficult to trace 19 funds if they are in cold storage wallets or moved to third 20 parties or liquidated on trading pools, there's also a 21 circumstance that we may never even know that they exist if we 22 were not able to provide an accounting and determine in that 23 way. So I submit respectfully, Your Honor, that that is the 24 reason why we believe the irreparable harm is here.

25 As for affecting the public interest, this is an

1 ongoing and widespread fraudulent offering that is currently 2 in the process of being franchised out to additional offerings
3 and currently at the website for Debt Box is announcing three 4 new securities offerings, and their promoters are now offering 5 seven new securities offerings related to pharmaceutical drugs 6 for the same scheme. That is what we refer to in the 7 complaint as FAIR projects. And those are continuing to 8 spread and expand through the use of MLMs, not only in 9 America, but now they're showing it much more and more in 10 YouTube videos in India as well as Africa.

11 And so I submit the public interest there, until we 12 have a preliminary injunction hearing to maintain the status
13 quo to allow us to get additional information and then address
14 those issues, Your Honor, in a full briefing at Your Honor's 15 convenience.

16 THE COURT: Yeah. Mr. Welsh, I wonder if I've 17 not -- maybe I've been imprecise, and I apologize. I
18 appreciate what you just said. Understanding and appreciating 19 that we're here in an ex-parte posture that the defendants 20 don't have notice, they're not here, and I haven't heard
21 anything from them yet and we will in time, I'm not suggesting 22 that we move to a preliminary injunction. In my preliminary 23 comments what I meant to propose is if the TRO was re-filed 24 addressing the other factors under Rule 65 that I could take 25 it up as early as Monday.

1 I fully appreciate from the papers the urgency, 2 which I think is why I started with an apology. I think we 3 lost a day with an errant assignment, though I was out of town
4 and couldn't have heard this yesterday, but the errant 5 assignment to another court. I will move as quickly as the 6 Commission wants to move. I didn't say this in my preliminary 7 comments, but I will emphasize it now.

8 I'll just tell you every time I sign one of these 9 orders it takes my breath away. It is a profound and 10 extraordinary invocation of the power of the federal 11 judiciary. And it affects citizens in a direct way without 12 any notice or opportunity to be heard.

13 So there are the -- that's the reason, of course,
14 for all these safeguards. It's the reason you do all the work 15 and your staff does all the work that they do to prepare such 16 complete filings before you file them. This is an area of law
17 where I'm not prepared to -- to say cut corners sounds a 18 little, that's probably too strong a word.

19 But the 10th Circuit requires a clear showing of 20 entitlement to this relief because of the nature of the relief 21 that's sought. There may be judges who would be willing to 22 basically amend the TRO application based on an oral argument
23 addressing factors that weren't addressed. And I'll just say 24 I'm struggling in my own mind even as you're speaking trying 25 to figure out whether this is just frivolity to require the

1 Commission to re-file an application that identifies and 2 addresses the elements individually as opposed to just making 3 a showing in oral argument because nobody is going to be 4 responding to this paper. I mean, I think they will in time.
5 It will be limited to 10 days under the rule, and then there 6 would be an opportunity to renew. But eventually the 7 defendants will be here responding. If they're responding to 8 the brief you filed, I think they would be making righteous 9 arguments and saying I applied the wrong standard and didn't 10 adequately consider the factors.

11 What I'm going to propose what we do now actually I 12 probably need to pause and reflect on this for a few minutes 13 before I'm prepared to decide whether I'm going to give the 14 oral ruling I had in mind or whether I'm going to entertain 15 further argument on the factors that weren't addressed, at 16 least directly addressed in the papers.

17 Is there anything more you would like to say? I'm 18 going to propose we recess for 10 or 15 minutes. I'm going to 19 ask you and your team to stay where you are. I think you're 20 calling from the East Coast. I've already caught you at 5:30 21 on a Friday night. I'm sorry about that. And you may be 22 working over the weekend, and I'm sorry about that.

23 MR. WELSH: No worries. I believe we're in the 24 same building right now. We're in Salt Lake City.

25 THE COURT: You're in Salt Lake City.

1                   MR. WELSH: We're in the regional office in Salt
2     Lake City, so no worries about that had.

3                   THE COURT: Terrific. Had we known that we would 4     have scheduled this in person instead of by Zoom. I thought 5     we were trying to accommodate you and your staff.

6                   Let me add one other thing before we recess, and 7     that is I think the application for the appointment of the 8     receiver is well supported. I think there's a basis for that.
9     If I don't rule -- if I don't enter the TRO today I'm going to 10    reserve on that motion until we get a TRO in place assuming 11    one is forthcoming. But just in the interest of transparency, 12    I don't think there's any more work to do there. The receiver 13    you proposed I think under the specific circumstances of this 14    case is probably an acceptable selection. I resist 15    out-of-state receivers even in situations like this where they 16    agree not to bill for their travel, but we still have 17    additional expenses. And of course, there's an estate that 18    we're trying to protect. But under the circumstances I think 19    you persuaded me this is the right selection for this case.

20                  But is there anything more you would like to say 21    about where we are procedurally before I recess and visit with 22    my law clerks and give this some more thought?

23                  MR. WELSH: No, Your Honor. I would just add the 24    fact that your point is well taken, and we do not mean in any 25    way to being cut corners in these circumstances. I take your

1 point regarding the 10th Circuit application of the law. We 2 are happy to re-file if that is your court's -- Your Honor's 3 preference.

4 I will say if it provides some comfort to Your 5 Honor we would be happy to go through each of the prongs and 6 discuss them, though I don't want to start doing this right 7 now because the fact that you already told me you don't want 8 to do it right now, I don't want to spend your time and waste 9 it. So I'm happy to wait for you to reflect and come back.
10 But I do appreciate you laying out the law and your concerns.
11 And if there's particular questions after that upon reflection
12 you want me to address, we'll be happy to do so. But I don't 13 want to sit here and pontificate on things you've already 14 foreshadowed.

15 THE COURT: Well, I may change my mind. And if I 16 do then that's the argument I hope to receive from you. I'm 17 just going to ask your patience for a few minutes.

18 To my law clerks watching this on Zoom, let me ask 19 you to come down to the courtroom and join me in a discussion 20 here.

21 Mr. Welsh, I'm going to take myself off camera and 22 mute myself. Please do the same there. And I'll be back with 23 you as quickly as I can, and we'll see how we proceed. But 24 for now at least we'll be in recess for a few minutes. Thank 25 you.

1 MR. WELSH: Very good. Thank you, Your Honor.

2 (Recess.)

3 THE COURT: Mr. Welsh, let's go back on the record.

4 Let me just continue to be as transparent as I know how to be.

5 Well, let me give you the punch line first and then work 6 backwards.

7 I think it's elevating form over function to 8 require the Commission to revise your, submit a revised or 9 amended motion tonight, say, with what are basically two pages 10 of argument just aligning the information that's already in 11 your papers with the elements that you thought you weren't 12 required to address rather than just do it in oral argument 13 now. I mean, the standard will be the same. We are in an 14 instance where because of the procedural posture and the 15 reason I wouldn't ordinarily allow it is it's unfair to the 16 responding party because without notice, you know, in their 17 papers they would respond to what you wrote in your opening 18 brief. But we don't have that problem today. We will 19 eventually, perhaps.

20 I think the transcript -- I guess what I'm saying 21 is I think the Commission has made a sufficient showing that 22 it be unfair to the Commission and to -- and potentially to 23 the investors in the case if we get to that point and we 24 establish on the merits that there's been violations and 25 there's been loss to require the Commission to lose additional

1 time providing information that could be provided on the 2 record today so long as we're meeting the standard.

3 I'm going to probably pause here for a minute and 4 just read into the record a part of my oral ruling that sets
5 out the standards that I think are required to be satisfied 6 today. And then, Mr. Welsh, I'll just listen and see where we 7 get.

8 So under Rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil 9 Procedure a court may issue a temporary restraining order 10 without written or oral notice to an adverse party. That's 11 Rule 65(b)(1). The parties seeking Rule 65 relief in the 12 10th Circuit must establish four elements. They are these:
13 First, a substantial likelihood of prevailing on the merits;
14 second, irreparable harm unless the injunction issues; third,
15 that the threatened injury to the movant outweighs the harm
16 that the preliminary injunction may cause the opposing party;
17 and fourth, that the injunction if issued will not adversely 18 affect the public interest. I cite the Diné Citizens Against 19 Ruining Our Environment vs. Jewell case, that 2016 decision 20 from the 10th Circuit.

21 In the same case, the 10th Circuit made clear that 22 a preliminary injunction is an extraordinary remedy, so the 23 movant's right to relief must be clear and unequivocal. And 24 as I signalled before our recess in the 10th Circuit certain 25 types of preliminary injunctions are disfavored and require

1 the movant to satisfy a heightened standard. That's a quote
2 from Colorado vs. EPA, a 10th Circuit decision from 2021.
3 That heightened standard requires a movant to make, quote, a 4 strong showing both on the likelihood of success on the merits 5 and on the balance of harms, end quote. That's from the 6 Colorado vs. EPA decision.

7 Disfavored injunctions include mandatory
8 preliminary injunctions as well as preliminary injunctions 9 that change the status quo. This also is described in 10 Colorado vs. EPA. Mandatory injunctions are those that 11 require the nonmoving party to take some affirmative action.
12 I cite here RoDa Drilling Company vs. Siegal, a 10th Circuit 13 decision from 2009. And I'm told by the 10th Circuit that an 14 injunction changes the status quo when it alters the last 15 peaceable uncontested status existing before -- between the 16 parties before the dispute developed. That's language from 17 Beltronics vs. -- excuse me -- Beltronics, USA vs. Midwest 18 Inventory Distribution, 2009.

19 So that the record is clear, and I may be wrong 20 about this some day, but I think under binding precedent in 21 the 10th Circuit in view of the language that I cited earlier 22 from Diné Citizens, I think I'm not permitted to apply the 23 relaxed standard that the Second Circuit articulated in 24 SEC vs. Unifund SAL notwithstanding that some of my colleagues 25 in this circuit and indeed in this court in recent years have

1 applied this standard in the injunction context. You all cite
2 in your papers and I'm aware of SEC vs. Traffic Monsoon, 3 Judge Parrish's decision from 2017.

4 Just so it's all clear in the same part of the 5 transcript in the event that the defendants are some day 6 reading this and trying to figure out how they wish to 7 respond, I'll just say that I've observed that Second Circuit 8 case law is not binding on the Court and neither the SEC nor 9 or research has yielded any Supreme Court or 10th Circuit case 10 law that suggests a reduced or lightened burden for the 11 Commission when seeking injunctive relief under Rule 65, which 12 brings me back to that language from Diné Citizens at 13 Page 1282 of that decision where the 10th Circuit held any 14 modified test which relaxes one of the prongs of preliminary 15 relief and thus deviates from the standard test is 16 impermissible, end quote. I acknowledged earlier and I'll say 17 again that, took case did not involve an application for 18 relief under Rule 65 by an administrative agency or the 19 Commission. But that language seems clearly and unequivocal, 20 and in the absence of the circuit saying that there is a 21 reduced or lightened standard for the Commission or 22 administrative agencies, I don't think there's a lawful basis 23 for me to deviate.

24 So here I've been carrying on at some length, 25 mainly because I want to ensure that we have a sufficient and

1       adequate record. So having said all that, let me I guess
2       further say I am satisfied that in the papers the Commission 3       has made a robust showing, a strong showing in the language of 4       the 10th Circuit for disfavored injunctions on the likelihood 5       of prevailing on the merits. So I don't think we need to 6       spend much time on that element.

7               But I'm eager to hear what else if anything you
8       would like to add, Mr. Welsh, on the remaining elements?

9               MR. WELSH: Thank you, Your Honor. At the outset,
10      I appreciate Your Honor's candor with respect to the concerns 11      regarding reaching each of the elements. This is -- the 12      decision to bring this TRO is not a decision we take lightly, 13      either. Just as we were on break I was reminded by 14      investigative staff with respect to the investigation which 15      remains ongoing that even in the last 48 hours defendants have 16      closed additional bank accounts, and I believe the number, I 17      don't have it in front of me, was around 33 bank accounts have 18      been closed.

19              And so with respect to the suffered irreparable 20      harm if the injunction is denied, second requirement, 21      investors that the SEC is here to protect would suffer 22      irreparable harm by the fact of their assets not being able to 23      be returned if this is determined on the merits to be another 24      security violation and securities fraud. As we discussed
25      earlier, the defendants have made clear that their intentions

1 are to move assets overseas and to dissipate funds.

2 This next point rolls into the third requirement.

3 To take a step back, this is not -- it's not a circumstance
4 where we're perpetrating funds from a business ongoing 5 overseas. All the defendants and/or operations remain in 6 Utah. They are moving funds into an account in Dubai, but 7 they still remain in Utah and are having chosen Utah, podcast 8 in Utah, and by their own words this is solely to avoid our 9 jurisdiction. And so weighing the harm against -- of the 10 injunction versus the harm to the defendants, we submit that 11 the harm to the public far outweighs the harm to the 12 defendants, and all that would be, is to if we were lose on 13 the merits would delay their decision to move to Abu Dhabi 14 rather than remain in the United States where they are 15 citizens, where they have bank accounts, where they continue 16 to have homes and where they continue to host podcasts from.

17 With respect to the fourth prong if an issue of 18 injunction would not adversely affect the public interest, as 19 Your Honor knows we are here on behalf of the investing public
20 of the United States to maintain integrity of the capital 21 markets. And the actions of defendants is an attack on 22 integrity of the public markets. They are using robust 23 marketing schemes to advertise a successful business operation 24 where all funds come from what is essentially equivalent of 25 the stock buyback based on their purported funds.

1                   Now, we have been covert, and in a short time where 2                   our investigation teams ongoing, even in that short time we 3                   have had affidavits verifying multiple instances where the key 4                   businesses underlying their operations are fraudulent.
5                   Unfortunately we don't have because we're on video, we would 6                   have liked to show you some of these YouTube videos that we 7                   referenced in the declarations attached to our motion. I 8                   don't know if you've had the opportunity to view them, but 9                   they include circumstances in which defendants are standing in 10                  front of a nonoperating oil well in Nevada saying that they've 11                  hit pay dirt and they're starting to send out that thought.
12                  And in another video a promoter says he just touched oil and 13                  loves the smell of it and can't wait to get it off his hands.

14                 These are the type of things they are preying on 15                 individuals to access these funds. And based off of our 16                 understanding of the technology in this circumstance, all they 17                 are creating is a fake back office to create the -- to create 18                 the appearance of a mining operation where all that is 19                 happening is they created a smart contract, something that 20                 even someone with limited intelligence as me could create in a 21                 couple hours with a tutorial video. And they're distributing 22                 those to these individuals claiming that they are investing in 23                 a global sprawling operation that has innovative satellite 24                 technology that even companies in those spaces say it's not 25                 possible.

1                   So bringing it back to the problems, Your Honor, if 2                   issued the injunction wouldn't adversely affect the public
3                   interest. I think that even allowing this to continue as it 4                   is and continue to operate and expand since it is continuing 5                   to grow for an additional week or two would greatly harm 6                   individuals and for investors that have already put their 7                   capital into this project increases the risk that they want to 8                   be able to recoup any of their funds.

9                   With that, I don't want to keep speaking over and 10                  over, but if there's any particular prong that you believe 11                  that you have more questions about I'm happy to address them.
12                  But I believe going back to the Unifund, I understand that's 13                  not the precedence in this circumstance, I would submit the 14                  position of the SEC in this circumstance is what makes it kind 15                  of different for those second two prongs is that we are here 16                  by statutory requirement to represent the public, and that's 17                  kind of what's in our mission by driven by undertaking these 18                  actions. So I understand Your Honor's position, and I'm well 19                  aware of the case law. But I point back to that as further 20                  support as to why our position here and why maintaining the 21                  status quo allowing us to obtain additional documents to get a 22                  better understanding of what assets these defendants have and 23                  what they are using those assets for would be in the public 24                  interest.

25                  THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Welsh. And I think it's 1       been the position of the Commission for sometime, and not just 2       the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade 3       Commission regularly makes similar arguments based on out of 4       circuit authority when they come seeking emergency relief.

5       And I don't fault anyone for it. I just know that I'm bound 6       to follow the law as best I understand it in the circuit. And 7       I may be wrong. Judge Parrish thinks that there's room still 8       to grant relief under the standard you briefed.

9               But in any event, look, having carefully and 10       thoroughly considered the factual and legal support submitted 11       by the Commission in support of its request application for a 12       temporary restraining order and taking into account this 13       argument that the Commission has provided today during this 14       hearing, organizing the information that's really already in 15       the Commission's application under the four elements that the 16       Commission didn't believe they were required to satisfy, but 17       having been told I was going to require it today, I think they 18       have now addressed all four factors, I'm satisfied that the 19       Commission has not only shown its entitlement to relief under 20       Rule 65 and the four required elements of the 10th Circuit, I 21       further find that the requested injunction is a disfavored 22       injunction in the 10th Circuit by definition, but that the 23       Commission has satisfied its obligation to make a strong 24       showing on both the likelihood of success on the merits and on 25       the balance of harms prong.

1           So I'm satisfied that the Commission has shown its 2   entitlement to relief. It's shown that that right to relief 3   is clear and unequivocal under the circumstances.

4           I will grant for those reasons and the reasons
5   stated in the Commission's submission the proposed temporary 6   restraining order submitted by the Commission with a few 7   modifications. First, I'm required to place the time of the 8   TRO, not just the date, but my law clerk and I think we see a 9   few places in the draft order where it appears that the Court
10   would be ordering relief a little more broad than the relief 11   requested in the motion. So I'm going to tailor the order a 12   little bit, and make sure you look at it carefully. If you 13   think that I've done something that is incorrect you're 14   welcome to seek leave to amend the temporary restraining order 15   if you wish.

16           I'm going to include the standard language that I 17   include in a lot of my TROs, well, most of them, maybe all of 18   them, that the temporary restraining order will expire under 19   Rule 65, 10 days after issuance. But I'm going to include 20   language in the order saying that it will automatically renew 21   unless I've received prior to that time some opposition to the 22   motion by one of the affected parties.

23           I'll just tell you it's my practice and I'll tell 24   the defendants if and when they appear, I ordinarily do that 25   two or three times, but at some point it will be time to

1 convert the TRO to a preliminary injunction. But I'll try to 2 signal that in my orders that I issue.

3 I'll just say to you while I have the benefit --
4 I'm happy to entertain additional briefing on this question 5 when you file your motion for preliminary injunction assuming 6 that's worth coming at some point after you've had a chance to 7 obtain some expedited discovery. I'm open-minded that I'm 8 applying the wrong standard, and if you want to put forward 9 some law trying to convince me otherwise, I'll consider it.
10 But you know what I think about the law at least after our 11 preliminary research.

12 I'll enter the order approving the appointment of a 13 receiver. I'm just going to add just so this is on your radar
14 screen as we go forward, in my last SEC, I think it was an SEC
15 case, we had an out-of-state receiver. And at some point 16 travel became an issue. I'm just going to keep an eye on it 17 here. We may appoint a co-receiver locally at some point if 18 it seems to be appropriate and a way to meaningfully save 19 money. But one step at a time. We'll start with what you 20 proposed.

21 I find that the receiver you proposed is qualified 22 and a suitable and adequate is probably too -- he's 23 impressive. But I'm going to leave it at adequate. A 24 selection to serve as a receiver in the case and as an officer 25 of the Court.

1                   Mr. Welsh, what else -- what have I forgotten, or 2                   what more do you think we should take up while we're together 3                   today?

4                   MR. WELSH: Nothing comes to mind, Your Honor.

5                   THE COURT: Just one moment. Let me check with the 6                   smarter person in our courtroom.

7                   MR. WELSH: Very good.

8                   THE COURT: Let me just look at my notes one more 9                   time.

10                  (Time lapse.)

11                  THE COURT: Okay. A written order will follow.

12                  Mr. Welsh, did your colleagues come up with 13                  something else we should take up?

14                  MR. WELSH: Just an administrative thing. Your 15                  Honor, we put draft Word versions of the proposed orders on 16                  the USB drive. I just want to make sure you had it. We can 17                  e-mail it to your clerk if that's helpful. I just wanted to 18                  double check on that.

19                  THE COURT: I appreciate you asking. Thank you.
20                  My clerk especially appreciates you asking. We have the 21                  drive, so we have the Word documents. Thank you. And in the 22                  future please feel free to e-mail them to our chambers. And 23                  to help expedite this a little bit, you'll see, on the court 24                  website, you'll see the names of my clerks and which clerk is 25                  assigned to which case. By terminal digit Carissa is the law

1 clerk assigned to this case. If you need to contact our 2 chambers you should coordinate through her.

3 All right. Thanks for your time. Thanks for your 4 patience with us. It took us a day to get this hearing set 5 and to have it. Good luck going forward. I'm sure we'll be 6 in touch. We'll be in recess. Thank you.

7 MR. WELSH: Thank you very much.

8 (The court proceedings were concluded.)
